RCCB Honored as a 2019 Top Workplace by The Philadelphia Inquirer

Royer Cooper Cohen Braunfeld LLC (RCCB), a law firm offering a distinctive combination of practical business acumen, legal expertise and entrepreneurial passion, has been selected as a 2019 Top Workplace by The Philadelphia Inquirer.

“Top Workplaces is more than just recognition,” said Doug Claffey, CEO of Energage. “Our research shows organizations that earn the award attract better talent, experience lower turnover, and are better equipped to deliver bottom-line results. Their leaders prioritize and carefully craft a healthy workplace culture that supports employee engagement.”

“Becoming a Top Workplace isn’t something organizations can buy,” Claffey said. “It’s an achievement organizations have worked for and a distinction that gives them a competitive advantage. It’s a big deal.”

The Top Workplaces were selected based on confidential employee feedback from a survey tabulated by a third-party, Energage, LLC, a leading provider of technology-based employee engagement tools. The survey measures several aspects of workplace culture, including alignment, execution, and connection, among others.

“We are proud to be named a Top Workplace and humbled by the positive feedback our employees submitted,” said Partner Roger Braunfeld. “When we founded RCCB almost seven years ago, we strived to build a firm that empowered the ambition of not only our clients, but also our employees. Our attorneys and staff are the heart and soul of Royer Cooper Cohen Braunfeld, and we are grateful for their hard work and dedication, and for making RCCB a top place to work.”
